deposits at the principal cities of Great Britain and the Continent, and the underselling in those markets of the foreign producers. Excessive freight charges have constituted the chief obstacle in the way of securing European markets, but this, it is thought, will now be overcome. It will require quite a campaign of education to accustom foreign consumers to the management of hard coal, and attempts in that direction have not been attended with encouraging results.

"The systematic and comprehensive course of operations now proposed gives promise of a more favorable outcome, and it is needless to say that such a change in the anthracite market would very materially enhance the value of the great hard coal estates of Pennsylvania in which such enormous amounts of capital now are tied up."

CHANGE OF FIRM NAME.

Prendergast and Geipel Will Conduct the Business Hereafter.

The interests of Messrs. S. A. Lackey and J. F. Rushmore in the firm of Prendergast, Lackey & Rushmore, stationers, of 207 Washington avenue, successors to Price & Roe, have been purchased by R. E. Prendergast and M. E. Geipel, who will continue the business under the name of Prendergast & Geipel. They will actively engage in all branches carried on by the old firm of lithographing, fine stationery, steel and copper-plate engraving, steel die stamping, office and bank stationery.

This is the only engraving plant outside the large cities and the only one in the state with the exception of Philadelphia and Pittsburg. They are in close touch with the leading correspondence paper house of America, Messrs. George B. Hurd & Co., of New York, whose stock they carry exclusively. This guarantees the latest and most artistic styles and textures in papers, and invitations cards. They also furnish their patrons with the latest style of cards and invitations just adopted by Tiffany & Co.

Mr. Geipel has had charge of the lithographing department of the Scranton Republican for a number of years, and is admirably fitted for the position. Mr. Prendergast is soliciting line of the firm. The firm employ ten people in their different departments and should be classed among the industries of the city.

AGAINST HANDLEY HEIR.

Judge Acheson Has Handled Down an Opinion.

In the suit of Irish cousins of the late Judge John Handley to have themselves, as next of kin, substituted for the City of Winchester as residuary legatees, Judge Acheson has decided that the construction is erroneous and that the will must stand.

The claimants alleged that the City of Winchester could not accept the bequest as its purpose, "the education of the poor," was not germane to the objects of the municipality; and also that this clause of the will must fail because of the uncertainty of the purposes, "the education of the poor."

Judge Acheson says that the city can accept the bequest under the laws of the state in which the testator had his domicile, and these laws, he avers, govern in this case. He denies that there is anything uncertain about the purpose of the bequest. The famous clause, "Schedule A," he says has no effect whatever on the will, which he characterizes as a perfect instrument, legally executed.

The claimants are directed to pay the costs. The residuary estate in dispute would amount to about $20,000,000.

John Cousins, of Brick avenue, is the only party allowed damages. The amount allowed him is $185.33.

MAYOR BAILEY IN HOT WATER IN A PERSONAL ATTACK HE HAS LAID HIMSELF OPEN.

He Charged Chairman Chittenden with "False and Malicious" Assertions, but Mr. Chittenden Has a Few Pointed Comments to Make in Reply—Impression Remains That His Honor Has Twisted Things Somewhat in His Attempt to Bolster Up His Slack Democratic City Administration.

C. E. Chittenden, president of select council, is after Mayor Bailey with a sharp stick. The stick is, apparently, not so pointed as to prevent a little sharpening if occasion demanded it. In this connection, Mr. Chittenden might more properly be designated as "chairman of the city Republican committee," as it was in that capacity that he was attacked in a communication signed by Mayor Bailey and which appeared in yesterday's Tribune.

Mayor Bailey was stricken by the following sentence contained in Chairman Chittenden's address to Republican voters, and published in yesterday's Tribune:

In urging the Republican voters to attend this primary force, I desire to call to their attention the fact that three years of Democratic rule is producing the same result in Scranton that it is accomplishing in other towns and villages in the valley, debt and taxation are increasing and the value of property decreasing.

Mayor Bailey's reply to this, and published in the Tribune, was as follows:

REPLY OF HIS HONOR.

I wish to correct this false and malicious assertion. The debt of the city has not increased during the three years of Democratic administration. Not a bond has been issued nor has any obligation been incurred which the city is not fully able to meet. One hundred and twenty thousand dollars have been redeemed, and there now is in the city treasury more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) in common bonds, and the city is solvent. If taxes have been increased, it is because the city is unable to meet its obligations. It is the duty of the citizens to look to the Republican council and a board composed of the Republican members in asking the responsibility therefor.

These are facts which any citizen may ascertain. The men who have been elected will recall upon the needs of their voters. It is unfair to charge this administration with the general business depression in the city, and to say that the value of property is decreasing. Mr. Chittenden has full knowledge of all these things and he is personally responsible for the misstatements he has made.

James G. Bailey, Mayor.

Chairman Chittenden was interviewed at his drug store on Lackawanna avenue by a Tribune reporter last night. When questioned concerning the "false and malicious assertion" accredited to him by Mayor Bailey, Chairman Chittenden said:

MR. CHITTENDEN'S REPLY.

"The statement of the mayor really requires a full explanation to the public, an amount of work that I am unable to give at this moment as the campaign work has occupied me to such an extent that my private work for the first of the year is not yet touched. I admit frankly that the bonded debt has not increased during this term because it can only be done by popular vote. I am glad to hear that the sinking fund is intact as this is strictly guarded by law. The tax for it is regulated by law and the deposits specified by council and the whole is handled by a board. So there is no chance for any display of ability on the part of any city official in this branch.

"The mayor will do the public a service by letting his gentlemen and me overworked secretary give a list of the difference in appropriation between the last year of Mayor Connell's administration and this year's necessary estimates; also, if he will tabulate the claims, judgments, added bills not provided for, damages, sewer assessments—in fact, the floating debt that is already fastened to the city, and, also, the mass that is claimed and not yet in judgment form. This takes time. I haven't it at the moment to spare.

"The mayor says the wicked council does it. He forgets that the mayor's veto equals twenty-eight councilmen, and that two-thirds of the responsibility is his.

"If the mayor is anxious to investigate a department, the rumor is that the files in his own department are in year in arrears, and that the city treasury would be over $3,500 richer for a settlement. This would be better than paying off a sinking fund account on the public, and I think that no official can help or hinder without involving his bondsmen.

"I am sorry that the mayor has rushed into print in this business. He is a kindly, amiable gentleman. But he may perhaps recall that I said to him when he spoke of running for the office of mayor that if he got it he would be able to leave it with the respect of the good will of his fellow citizens."

DUNMORE CORNERS HOLDS THE RECORD

NUMEROUS FIRES THERE DURING THE LAST TEN YEARS.

Territory Within a Radius of One Block of the Corners Has Been Visited Often by Destructive Fires During the Last Ten Years Than Any Piece of Ground of Equal Size in the State of Pennsylvania—Some of the Buildings Destroyed.

Workmen were engaged yesterday in clearing up the ruins of Thursday morning's fire at Dunmore. Some of the firemen about the scene fell into a reminiscent mood and discussed the many disastrous fires that have taken place within a radius of a block from the corners during the last ten years. There is not a spot of territory in Pennsylvania of equal size that has suffered to an equal extent from the ravages of fire during that period.

On Dec. 29 last, Smith Brothers' grocery store, within a few doors of Thursday morning's fire, was almost destroyed by a fire of mysterious origin. On the morning of Dec. 14, for the fourth time in ten years, the Stanton building, at Blakely and Drinker streets, was laid in ashes and the Boland building, adjoining it, damaged.

McDonald's hotel, on East Drinker street, near Chestnut, was destroyed on the morning of May 31. The fire is supposed to have been the work of burglars, as three unsuccessful attempts had been made to fire the place before its final destruction.

FIRES OF 1897.

There were two big fires at the corners in 1897. In August, three buildings owned by Frost, at the corner of Chestnut and East Drinker streets, were laid low. Later in the year there was another early morning fire and two burns owned by the Flynn estate. One by T. P. Lechowich, one by James Matter and one by Thomas Young, together with the house of Thomas Derflinger, were destroyed.

In July 25, 1894, the two Stanton buildings, at Blakely and West Drinker streets, were consumed.

On April 17, 1892, a fire started on East Drinker street, near Chestnut, which destroyed the buildings of H. M. Spencer, W. L. Purcell, Michael Smith, Richard Howard and John Stanton. On Dec. 18 the brick store of the Boyle estate, at Blakely and East Drinker streets, was badly damaged. Joseph Maxwell lost his life in the fire.

November 27, 1891, the West Drinker and Blakely streets corner had another disastrous fire. Three buildings owned by John Stanton, one by T. E. Boland, one by the Collins estate and one by Ira Trippe were laid in ashes. The flames sent great tongues across Blakely street and fiercely attacked the Boyle store building, doing great damage to it.

SOME OTHER FIRES.

The biggest fire of 1890 started in the rear of Hubbard & Allen's store, at East Drinker and Chestnut streets, and destroyed four buildings owned by Frost. Three were of brick, one was a frame house and the other a frame barn. Other buildings destroyed were three frame buildings of the Ward estate, and the house of John Nichols. A house occupied by Owen Flynn was badly damaged.

Many of these fires were undoubtedly of incendiary origin, but no arrests were made in connection with them. Because of these many fires, insurance rates at the corners are unusually high.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Voting Will Be Between the Hours of 4 and 8 P. M. Today.

The Republican city primaries will be held today between the hours of 4 and 8 p. m.

All of the return judges named by City Chairman Chittenden in his address to voters, published in yesterday's Tribune, will serve, with two exceptions. Charles Kloss has been named in place of Joseph Shorten for the Second district of the Twentieth ward. P. Schuler, named for the First district of the Seventh ward, has declined to serve, but no successor has been appointed. Only thirty Republican votes were cast in the district at the last presidential election.

POOR BOARD WON'T ORGANIZE

Waiting to Learn the Identity of Terppe's Successor

The poor board did not reorganize last night. All six members met for the purpose of selecting a successor from Friday of last week, but another adjournment was made to Friday of next week, the day for the regular semi-weekly meeting.

The failure to organize is due to the failure of court to appoint a successor to F. L. Terppe, the director who recently resigned. The presence of Mr. Terppe's successor is not a legal necessity, but the present members wish to know his identity before electing officers, distributing the committee and naming the appointees.

LOOKING FOR A RUNAWAY.

Moosic Man Asks the Police to Watch for His Son.

Thomas Lockert, a Moosic boy, ran away from home on Wednesday, and is thought to be in this city. His father, Joseph Lockert, traced him to Pittston and then to Scranton. Mr. Lockert came here in search of his last night.

To the police the father gave this description of the boy: "Ten years old, but looks older; black shoes, knee pants, dark overcoat, black cap, light hair and combed back. The eyes if found telephoned to John McCrindle, Moosic."

TESTIMONY FOR DEFENSE

Offered Yesterday in the Impeachment Proceedings Against Alderman John P. Kelly—The Witnesses Who Were Sworn.

The defense in the Kelly impeachment case yesterday had the task of explaining away the incriminating evidence produced by Prosecutor C. M. DeLong.

One of the cases taken up was the alleged fictitious suit against John J. Grady of Monks Run, Constantine James W. Clarke testified that he arrested Grady and started to take him to Scranton. At Carbondale, while going along in the trolley car, Grady saw a man who would go his bail, he said. The constable took him off the trolley and the man was interviewed, and, upon agreeing to go Grady's bail, the trio repaired to Alderman J. F. Atkinson's office in Carbondale, where Grady waived a hearing and entered bail. Alderman Atkinson went on the stand and corroborated Constable Clark as to the taking of Grady's bail.

In two other alleged fictitious cases, in which John Petten and Mary Irwin, of Wilkes-Barre, were named as defendants, Officer John Tierney testified that he served the warrants and also that he was present when the prisoners were interviewed. He made two trips to Wilkes-Barre in each case, which explained the unusually large amount of costs taken on the transcript. In the Petten case the defendant gave bail before Alderman Moyler, of Wilkes-Barre.

J. R. Powers took the stand and swore that he was witness of Robert J. Johnson's cross when he signed a warrant in another alleged fictitious case.

Additional testimony was also presented to substantiate the allegation that the prosecution was malicious. Philip Boose swore that he only signed the petition for Kelly's impeachment at the solicitation of DeLong and another man, whom he did not know.

John Steiber, who at a previous hearing swore that his signature was placed on the petition without his knowledge, was recalled to testify that Mr. DeLong, after the hearing, told him in a threatening way that his denial would cost him $3,000. When placed on the stand, Steiber said that DeLong merely said to him, "Your action will cost me $3,000."

Alderman Kelly, himself, went on the stand and told of diligent but unsuccessful search to find Rocco Tella, Antonio Fianrogetta and William Arndt, whose names appeared on the petition. He could not find any of them, and swore that there were no such addresses as those set opposite their names. The first two are alleged to be residents of the 900 block of Edwards court. The numbers in Edwards court, it was shown, only run as high as 490.

Arndt's address is given as 219 Franklin avenue. The highest number in the 200 block of Franklin, it was stated, is 247.

In a case where it was alleged the charge was changed on the transcript from assault and battery to larceny, Frank Carlucci, the ball in the case, swore that he had an impression that it was a larceny case, as the transcript indicated, but he would not be positive about it.

LITTLE BUSINESS DISPOSED OF

Grip Interfers with the Work of Civil Court.

Twenty-one of the thirty-five cases scheduled for trial in common pleas this week were continued, many of them because of the fact that the parties or attorneys were ill of the grip.

Of the fourteen cases disposed of there were eleven one returned, one non-suited, and nine tried. In six of the cases tried, verdicts were found for the plaintiff; in two the defendants were victorious, and the other a non-suit was granted.

Vote for Jadwin, the candidate of no faction.

In the Connell building a number of offices are specially adapted to lawyers' use. A feature of the building is a complete law library, the free use of which will be for tenants of the building. Apply to J. L. Connell, Connell building.

To the Republican Voters of the City

MISSION FAIRLY SUCCESSFUL

Work Done by Secretary H. S. Fleming in Europe.

"The mission of Secretary H. S. Fleming of the Anthracite Coal Operators' association, looking to the introduction of hard coal in Europe, appears to have been fairly successful," says the Philadelphia Stockholder.

"Mr. Fleming's full report has not yet been made public, but the outlook for obtaining a market for anthracite in Europe may at least be described as encouraging. At all events, organized and determined effort is to be made to establish a market for that fuel on the other side of the Atlantic.
